To Whom It May Concern:

Re: Letter concerning Roberta Seymour

I became a member of Gold's Gym about the same time during the Men's World Cup soccer games. As part of my weekly routine, I would workout and run on the treadmill and watch the soccer games; this was a stress reliever for me. It was at this time where I first met and came in contact with Roberta Seymour. Our relationship was quite peculiar because as she was on the treadmill next to me, the whole time she would complain about other members of the gym and speak ill of them. She made me feel very uncomfortable as she would say comments concerning their social lives and even speak negatively of their eating habits and work ethics. While at the gym, I befriended Kevin; another member of the gym at the time. Him and I would come in at 3 ~~am~~ some mornings and work out together. He and I would hold conversations as we laughed back and forth after I was done running on the treadmills. Kevin always came over to the where the treadmills were to let me know he was in the building. We could tell that Ms. Seymour became interested in our conversations and even began saying mean things about our relationship. It was almost like she was jealous. Kevin and I are friends that met in the gym... there is nothing else to our relationship. Ms. Seymour would make derogatory comments about him such as saying all he did was talk instead of working out and she would also question his social life and work ethics. Ms. Seymour made is perfectly clear that for whatever reason, she did not like Kevin. She often referred to him as being obnoxious, loud and rude. She also went as far as to question his financial status and abilities. She wanted to know how he could afford to come in and work out at all of kinds of hours and miss work. I took it upon myself to explain to her that he was self employed and his finances were not an issue and should not even be a concern of hers. Unfortunately, this was only the beginning of a much bigger problem that was to come. This is where it all started... after this, Ms. Seymour insinuated that Kevin was stalking her and has led us up to this point. I said to Ms. Seymour that Kevin did not have to worry about money.
